Inquisitive Reporter Beards Beard-Removers On Beards

Men will never again wear beards. And they'll soon be using lipstick!

These prophecies were made by local barbers this week—or rather the first was and the second came by inference. No tonsorial artist came right out and said that males will soon be daubing their lips with scarlet but when questioned by an inquisitive Herald reporter they admitted that practice may not be far off.

They'll be using lipstick—a transparent kind—because male fashion arbiters are already clamoring for such a beauty aid. Not only that, but cosmetic makers have put their heads together and declared men fair game for foundation creams, evening powders, wrinkle removers and freckle solvents. A few years of advertising pressure will do the trick, they believe.

But about this matter of beards—for centuries men's beards have been on again and off again and right now are off again. And they'll stay off for sanitary reasons. Also because of mechanical razors which some of the shops are installing in addition to their strops and traditional straight-edges.

Scipio Started Shaving
The extinction of beards is a body-blow to tradition, barbers admit, recalling:
That Adam was believed created with one.
That God the Father and all the prophets have always been pictured bearded.

That the oath, "Upon my boag!" is as old as history. And that Paris waiters went on a strike in 1907 when ordered to shave off their mustaches.

Ever wonder who was the first gent to shave daily? It was an old Roman, named Scipio Africanus, who defeated Hannibal. The first clean-shaven men in history were the soldiers of Alexander the Great. He ordered them to sacrifice "the handles by which enemies could seize them" in battle.

Whiskers Tell Character
You can be glad you're not a Moslem. When a Moslem dresses his beard he saves all hairs to be buried with him. That's why when a Moslem he pledges you eternal brotherhood.

If you like puzzles, why is the wearing of beards discouraged in the Army and favored among officers—in the Navy? Local barbers were asked if they could tell a man's character by the texture of his hair. Several said that they could—to a certain extent. A dark, dry, hard, thin growth often indicates an irritable disposition, while a light, thick, soft, curling hair accompanies a mild disposition. This difference seems to follow from the type of nourishment a man takes. Poor and indigestible food produces the first kind of hair and wholesome and nutritious food the second type—so say some barbers.

Here are some interesting hair facts: The average young man of today has 30 square inches less scalp area than the young blade of Egypt in 2000 B. C. Comparative figures are 115 C.

But the rate of hair growth never seems to change. On the average it grows one-half inch per month, slowing up when it reaches 15 inches, and dropping out when it is between 15 and 30 inches long. At the age of 50 the average person has grown hair 25 feet long. At 80—40 feet.

Four and one-half ounces of hair per year is the average adult crop. A blonde has about 100,000 scalp hairs—a brunette, 80,000 to 100,000 and a red head perhaps only 50,000. And hair does NOT grow after death.

LIABILITY FOR DEBTS
We have within the past generation become a nation of debtors. High-pressure sales methods, mass production, installment selling, have all contributed to remove the stigma from being in debt. The difficulty of going into debt has been reduced to a minimum, and the law has cooperated by extending every protection to the defaulting debtor.

It is well to remember, however, that the life of the defaulting debtor was not always made easy by liberal exemption statutes, moratoriums, and bankruptcy laws fraudulently applied. As recently as the time of Charles Dickens, the debtor had only one alternative: pay or go to jail. And jails in those days were not the PWA-financed architectural gems we now have; they were generally open stockades in which the debtor sat until his friends or family paid the creditor. While such harsh treatment is obviously out of fashion in this century, some legal distinction must soon be made between the honest debtor on the one hand, and the chronic bill-beater on the other.

Implication for Debt: Both our federal and our state constitutions provide against imprisonment for debt. It is universally held that alimony is not such a debt within these provisions, and a person may be imprisoned for failure to pay alimony as ordered. The technical charge in this event is contempt of court.

Debts of the Husband: The separate property of the husband is liable for his debts contracted either before or after marriage. The separate property of the wife is not liable for the debts of her husband, except, if necessary, are furnished to husband or wife while living together.

Debts of Wife: The separate property of the wife is liable for debts contracted by her, either before or after marriage. The husband is not liable for debts contracted by the wife after marriage, unless she was acting as his agent, or in the exceptional case where the wife has authority to bind the credit of the husband for necessities, where the husband has failed to provide them for her.

Contracts of Minors: A minor is any person under the age of 21; except that a married woman over 18 is deemed an adult for purposes of contracting. No minor may appoint an agent; nor may a minor, under 18 deal with realty, or personal property not in his immediate possession and control.

A minor under 18 may disaffirm the contract without ever returning the consideration; but a minor over 18 may only disaffirm if he returns the thing contracted for.

A minor is also liable for the reasonable value of necessities furnished him, while not under the care of parent or guardian able to furnish them.

Chicken Thief Nabbed After Robbery Here

Less than 12 hours after he robbed J. R. Walker's chicken coop at 3061 231st street of 10 red hens—leaving only a forlorn old rooster—the thief was nabbed by deputy sheriffs working out of the Norwalk sub-station Saturday morning, local police were informed.

Because the chicken-catcher has a long string of alleged burglaries behind him it is doubtful if he will be brought here to face prosecution on the Walker theft case. The local resident recovered his property alive Saturday afternoon, it was reported.

Drunk Driving Report Issued

Drunken driving, which safety experts concede is one of the nation's gravest traffic menaces, caused approximately two-thirds of all California drivers' license cancellations, suspensions and revocations in 1936.

Paul Mason, chief of the state division of drivers' licenses, department of motor vehicles, said 678 of a total of 1,044 license withdrawals during the year were from persons guilty of drunken driving. Three hundred sixty-six persons had their operator's license taken away from them from other causes, while driving privileges were restored to 112 after a penalty period.

GET UP NIGHTS DUE TO BLADDER IRRITATION?

It's not normal. It's nature's "Danger Signal." Make this 25c test. Use hichu leaves, juniper oil, and 6 other drugs, made into little green tablets called Bukets. Flush out excess acids and impurities. Excess acids can cause irritation resulting in getting up nights, scanty flow, frequent desire, burning, backache, and leg pains. Just say Bukets to your druggist. In four days if not pleased your 25c will be refunded. Dolley Drug Co.—adv.
